

THE EVENING CRITIC.
ESTABLISHED AUGUST 1868.

Special Weather Bulletin.
The special bulletin issued from the Signal Office to-day says:
The indications are that rain will prevail over the Atlantic coast and in the Southern States during Thursday.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS

About People and Things in Washington.

HUFF's black goods store, 713 7th st. n. w. Forty-six arrests were made by the police yesterday.

LEWIS COLLINS, charged with larceny, was acquitted in the Criminal Court to-day.

PRIVATE SULLIVAN, of the Sixth Precinct, shot a mad dog last evening on Fourth street near N.

SEE THIRD PAGE OF TO-DAY'S CRITIC for the Evening Star's true opinion of William A. Cook and vice versa.

WOMEN and upholsterers were at work to-day sewing and laying new carpets in the House wing of the Capitol.

This being All Soul's day, it was informally observed in the Catholic and Episcopal Churches throughout the city.

ONE of the horses in car No. 33, Avenue line, slipped and fell near the Quarterman-General's Office to-day and was slightly injured.

THE room of the House Committee on Military Affairs is now being used as a barber shop. Quite a brisk little trade was being done to-day.

EX-POLICEMAN JOHN E. NORTON fell from a car at Seventh and D streets last evening and broke his left leg. He was taken to Providence Hospital.

THE coroner has been notified of the sudden death of Charles H. Smith while at work yesterday afternoon in an alley near Seventh and I streets southeast.

W. N. NIDFIELD was prostrated last evening on H street near Eleventh by a severe attack of heart disease and was relieved at the Emergency Hospital.

THE number of departmental clerks applying for leave of absence to go home to vote is much less this year than for many preceding years for all of the States except Virginia.

YESTERDAY MORNING a horse belonging to the Commissary Department took fright and ran away. John Hanlan, who was driving, was slightly hurt and the carriage completely wrecked.

CORONER PATTERSON and Dr. Hartigan held an autopsy yesterday upon the body of M. H. Dodson, who died suddenly at the Poor-house. A tumor in the brain was found to be the cause of death.

THE Equitable Co-operative Building Association will hold its monthly meeting to-night at Marlin's Hall. Subscriptions for stock in the third issue will be received and the first payment on the same will be due.

CHARLES WRIGHT, a driver on the Pennsylvania avenue cars, was fined $5 by Judge Snell for driving his car through a procession of New Jersey troops on the 22d ultimo. An appeal to the grand jury was noted.

THE "pink eye" continues to increase among District horsemen, many private stable boys now affected. By veterinary surgeons it is stated that unless the prevailing weather clears up the disease will merge into glanders.

MORE "CUSE WORDS" were uttered during the present week on account of the action by the "book-makers" and horsemen in our city, than were prayers of thanksgiving by the citizens of New York, for its salvation from water famine.

THE oldest friends are to-day the staunchest friends of Dr. Bull's tough Syrup. They have proven its great worth in all cases of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Tickling in the Throat, Irritation of the Bronchial Tubes and Lungs, etc.

THE installation of officers of Perseverance Lodge, No. 2, I. O. G. T., for the present quarter took place last night. The officers installed were James Henry, Jr., W. C. T.; Miss Nellie Pocock, W. V. T.; Thomas J. Swearingen, W. F. S.; Miss Mamie C. Cooke, W. C. J. E. Bishop, W. M. Miss Jessie Wilson, W. I. G.

JUSTICE WYLLIE to-day granted Moses Ogde a divorce from Virginia Ogde. The parties were married in this District March 21, 1867, by Rev. John A. Williams, and he charged that she committed adultery with John Hopper at No. 1510 K street northwest in October, 1879, and other places. The charge being proven the divorce was granted.

THE LIST of liquor licenses published in the papers as having been approved by the examining committee is incorrect. These applications have been sent to the chief of police to be transmitted to the lieutenants of the precincts in which the restaurants are located in order to verify the signatures attached to the various petitions. When this is done they will come back to the committee, accompanied by the report of the lieutenants, and then be passed upon.

Books for the subscription to the capital stock of the Cumberland, Washington & Norfolk Railroad company, which was incorporated in Maryland a few days since, were opened at Suitland yesterday, and all the stock was taken.

THE road, it is understood, is to connect the coal fields at Cumberland with the Washington City & Suitland Look-out Railroad, which is now being built. The connection will take place at Hyattsville.

DURING a society meeting at G-street Hall last night a dispute arose about the distribution of some money, and the altercation became so lively that in the midst of the quarrel the noise indicated a tumult.

When the meeting was over, the preacher and deacon of the church attempted to settle the question by a fight, in which two sisters and two brothers were injured. Police officers arrived on the scene and arrested the Rev. Peter Hayes, Deacon Richard Moulton, Brothers Archie Hayes and Jim Taylor, as well as sisters Ellen Ware and Anna Moulton, all of whom forfeited collateral in the Police Court this morning.

SHOULD the plan of railroad transfer through the city, proposed by Lieut. Hoxie, be adopted, it is thought certain that the District would purchase the Sixth street depot for use as a District Government building. The Jefferson School building, on Sixth and D streets, directly opposite the new Adams Express warehouse and the city workshops of the Baltimore & Potomac Road, would be just in the gap between the Elevated Railroad and the tunnel, and so manifestly out of place as a school building and in a position for a Baltimore & Potomac depot and offices that it may be well anticipated that a new school building in a better place would be built for South Washington, and the present building find use for railroad purposes.

THE Lawrence Fund.

We acknowledge the receipt of the following additional subscriptions to the fund for the relief of the family of the late George Lawrence, who was killed by the Navy-yard explosion. The family is really in need, and money could not be more worthily bestowed than upon them:

Mrs. P. M. Moulton, $2.75
G. Cheney, 25
S. Halstead, 1.00

Heretofore acknowledged, $4.00
Total, $10.00

Caring bonnets cast their shadows before—P. J. Man.

PROBABLY FATAL QUARREL.

A Man at the Fair Grounds Horribly Wounded.

A quarrel occurred early this morning at the Fair grounds, in the stables of ex-Gov. Bowie, of Maryland, which proved a very serious matter. "Duff" Boone, a mulatto, 30 years of age, a groom employed by Gov. Bowie, had a fight with Henry Brown, another colored man employed in the stables, when Brown, after being beaten by Boone, seized a pitchfork and gave his antagonist three horrible wounds on the head.

Boone, who was armed with a pitchfork, penetrated the eye of Boone, and went in to the depth of over an inch. The police ambulance was sent to the grounds, and the wounded man was removed in a senseless and it was thought, dying condition to the Freedmen's Hospital, where he arrived, and is at the Second Precinct station.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Purvis said that the wounded man was still insensible, and was apparently suffering from a concussion caused by a blow from a heavy club, as well as from three separate stab wounds, one of which was on the right cheek, one on the right shoulder, and another on the back of the head. The man's eyes had not been opened, he thought, by the pitchfork, as reported. The doctor stated he could do very little until the man recovered sensibility, but that he thought the chances for his recovery were exceedingly small.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

Identified at Last.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October the body of an unknown white man was found floating in the river near the Long Bridge. It had lain in the water such a length of time as to prevent the features being recognizable. By direction of Coroner Patterson the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. William S. Buchly, where it was kept for ten days, and not being claimed was interred in Congressional cemetery. Time passed and nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when Mr. W. H. Bergman, druggist, corner Sixth and N streets, visited Mr. Buchly's, asked to see the clothing, which was shown, and recognized it as that of a young man named George Prinkhorn, son of Henry Prinkhorn, grocer, residing at Fifth and N streets northwest. Mr. Bergman went and got the brother of the deceased, who identified the clothing, and was greatly affected by the discovery. The two then visited the Coroner, and looked at the valuables taken from the person of the deceased and no doubt remained of the drowned man being young Prinkhorn. The father and others of the family were notified, and arrangements have been made to transfer the body from where it now lies to Rock Creek Cemetery. The deceased had been employed in Phippen's bakery, at Fourth and D streets southwest, and declared his intention of going to New York to work. Not coming home or hearing from him, the family reasonably supposed that he had gone East. His untimely and sad death has overwhelmed the family in grief.

On the 10th of last October